

Chips and cheese: Google's latest doodle honors Ignacio Anaya García, the inventor of nachos

August 16 2019, by Brett Molina, Usa Today

Credit: CC0 Public Domain

This is "nacho" ordinary Google Doodle.

On Thursday, Google used its logo to honor a legend in the food world: Ignacio Anaya García, the inventor of nachos born 124 years ago on Aug. 15.

The doodle is an animated gif featuring García assembling tortilla chips on a plate, then topping them with shredded cheese and sliced jalapeño peppers.

According to Google, García created the signature dish in 1943 while working as Maître d' at a popular restaurant in the border town of Piedras Negras, Coahuila.

A group of wives stationed at a nearby air base dropped in to eat. García couldn't track down a chef, so he pulled together a dish he named Nachos especiales. The rest is culinary history.

The doodle was created by Alfonso de Anda, a guest artist based in Mexico City.

"There isn't a whole lot of information on Ignacio, so I shifted my focus onto the dish itself," said de Anda in an interview posted by Google. "My approach was very straightforward; imagining Ignacio making his first plate of nachos while implicitly communicating a sense of fun."

(c)2019 U.S. Today

Distributed by Tribune Content Agency, LLC.

Citation: Chips and cheese: Google's latest doodle honors Ignacio Anaya García, the inventor of nachos (2019, August 16) retrieved 3 May 2024 from <https://techxplore.com/news/2019-08-chips-cheese-google-latest-doodle.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.
