

Microsoft resolves major Monday outage after five hours

September 29 2020, by The Associated Press

---

This April 12, 2016 file photo shows the Microsoft logo in Issy-les-Moulineaux, outside Paris, France. Microsoft took five hours to resolve a major outage of its workplace applications on Monday, but has not clarified what caused the outage. The company said the outage, which affected users' ability to log into Office 365 applications, began early evening Monday Eastern time. Microsoft did not reply to questions Tuesday, Sept. 29, 2020 about what caused the outage, but said on its service-status Twitter account that it had identified a "recent change" that caused problems. (AP Photo/Michel Euler, File)

Microsoft took five hours to resolve a major outage of its workplace applications on Monday, but has not clarified what caused the outage.

The company said the outage, which affected users' ability to log into Office 365 applications, began early evening Monday Eastern time. Microsoft did not reply to questions Tuesday about what caused the outage, but said on its disrupted virtual school for many back in August.

On Tuesday morning, the workplace communications service Slack reported issues sending messages for over an hour.

© 2020 The Associated Press. All rights reserved. This material may not be published, broadcast, rewritten or redistributed without permission.

Citation: Microsoft resolves major Monday outage after five hours (2020, September 29) retrieved 19 April 2024 from

<https://techxplore.com/news/2020-09-microsoft-major-monday-outage-hours.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.